is that the increase is not nearly so marked as it ought to be and there can be little doubt that native shikaris occasionally shoot antelope for gain. The person who really suffers from the interdiction is the bona fide sportsman who not only observes the interdiction but, were it removed, would refrain from shooting females, young, or immature males. I think that sportsmen may, on application, be permitted to shoot a stipulated number of bucks with horns not less than 15 inches in the case of black-buck and than 5 inches in the case of chinkaras

I have noticed a perceptible increase in the number of antelopes, but the increase is not so marked as to justify unrestricted slaughter. I would therefore propose that each license-holder be permitted to shoot one black buck in a year, and that a report of the buck being thus shot be made to the Dy. Conr. as suggested by the Hon'y. Sec'y. Game Association.

9 The Association suggests that sportsmen be allowed to shoot 3 or 4 antelopes a year, but the Conservator is of opinion that each licence holder should be permitted to shoot only one black buck a year. As there has not been a marked increase in the number of antelopes it may be stipulated that no licence holder shall kill more than one animal a year.
